Dr. Mary J. Foley, late a member of the Sacramento State College faculty, left a profound impression on many people. Among those who were honored and influenced by her friendship and advice is Earl C. Warren, chief justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. Warren wrote the following letter, expressing his admiration for Dr. Foley, as a foreword to the 1955 Statesman.

Dr. Foley will be remembered not only because she was a fine teacher and knew how to give life and meaning to her subject, but because she understood young people and was always willing to try to help them in any way she could. It was this quality that made her a wonderful friend to all boys and girls who knew her. And what could be more valuable to them in those important years of their lives? In this manner she not only left her imprint upon the educational system of our state but also upon the hearts and minds of our people.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The ultimate purpose for which our college exists is basic to every aspect of our academic way of life. We study that we may know more about ideas and things and prepare ourselves for deeper insights tomorrow. We think in order to weigh values and thus determine a sound course of action for ourselves as individuals and as a society of free men. We play for relaxation and enjoyment and to "recreate" our minds and bodies for the tasks that lie ahead. We have our group activities in order to satisfy a need for human association and to learn to live together in an increasingly complex society.

Thus, everything we do here serves a two-fold purpose. Life must be lived today as well as tomorrow. But the extent to which our thoughts and actions today are in harmony with our needs of tomorrow determines in large measure the degree of happiness and success which we can hope to enjoy in the future.

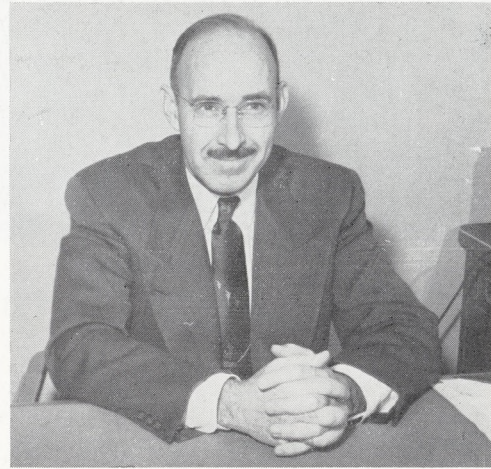

All this, I think, can be said in simpler terms: It is important to be serious and constructive in our thought and action. What we say and do and think today becomes important for us, and for the world, tomorrow. College, therefore, is no place for irresponsible individuals.

It is a source of the deepest satisfaction to me to observe distinct evidences of a maturing process in most of our students. This, I believe, reflects favorably upon our efforts to establish high standards in every phase of our campus activities and to provide for our students an educational program which not only exposes them to the broadest range of facts and principles chosen from the rich store of human culture, but which also encourages and enables them to make maximum application of such knowledge in their day-to-day experiences on and off the campus.

Fall, 1954, saw the advent of football at Sacramento State College. Coach Dave Strong was faced with the problem of building a team from unknown or unheralded players who had the spirit and energy to contribute to the squad.

Though the Hornets lost every game, the team continued to function with great confidence.

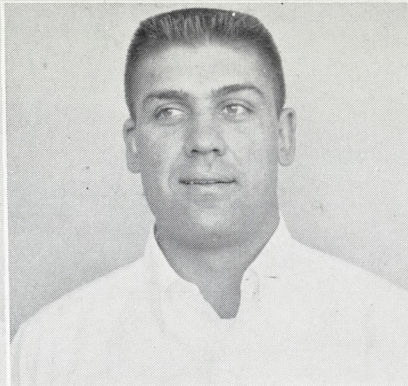

Confidence nearly paid off when the Hornets surprised the Alameda Hellcats with outstanding team playing. Though the Green and Gold was on the short end of a 21-19 score, the final two minutes found them on a goalward march that was thwarted only by the final gun.

Making an exciting tackle in the SSC-Nevada game, center Jack Davidson (55) is shown bringing the Nevada man down. Also in on the play are Glenn Underwood (62), Don Cvengros (75). Bill Warner (60) is shown coming up on the play.

Two Nevada wolfpackers tackle and effectively bring down Hornet Tony Kosinki another play during the SSC-Nevada game.

Cleo Lewis (21) puts on steam to reel off yardage against Humboldt State, while Glenn Underwood (62) prepares to block for him.

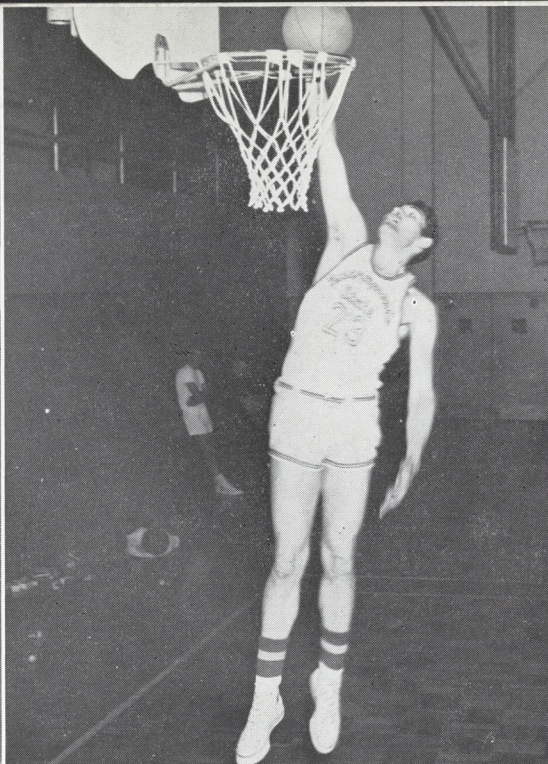

In an unsuccessful scramble to get at the ball, Jack Fallon (22) and an unidentified Nevada man came together.

Fighting hard, Glenn Underwood (62) and Jack Fallon manage to stop a member of the Nevada wolfpack right at the goal line.

George Larsen (22) goes in for a successful attempt at the basket. The exciting play took place in the Far Western Conference opener, SSC against Humboldt State.

Up in the air for one of his famous jump shots, Jim Gray (4) scores against COP.

Chas. Hayes takes a chance in this unusual shot over the outstretched arms of a COP man.

Ball, ball, who's got the ball? Masters, Powell and Munsell fight for the ball with two COP Tigers.

sports

Chas. Hayes and Red Powell give Cal Poly players a battle for the ball.

J. C. Masters has the longest arm in this struggle with Ken Piercy (17), and Bob Fidler (15) of Chico State. Chas. Hayes stands poised for a possible rebound.

conference

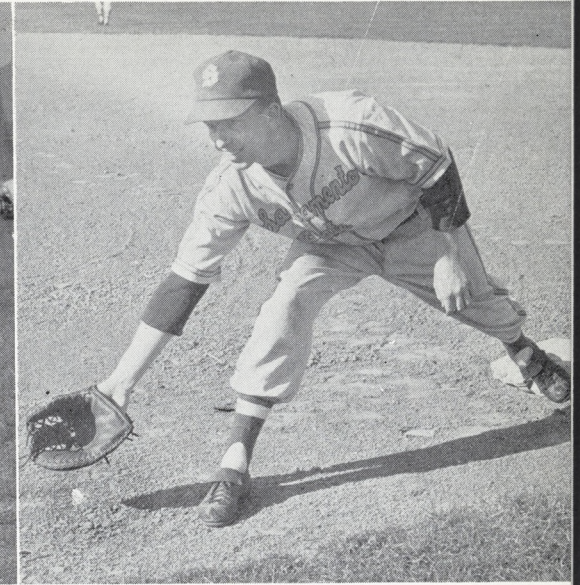

Sacramento State's baseballers, 1954 co-champions, started this year's campaign, facing stronger league teams than last year. Determined not to share the crown with anyone this year, the Hornets pitched and batted their way to undisputed first place. With the outstanding pitching of J. C. Masters, the Hornets finished the Far Western Conference with 8 wins and 2 losses. Masters was the iron man of the moundsmen staff as he piled up an excellent record of 7 wins against only 2 setbacks.
